Change. Our new President-elect of the United States campaigned under the banner of “Change.” Change is coming for the U.S., and while some embrace change, others are fearful of the sacrifices change may bring. In his first speech as President-elect, Barack Obama said, “So let us summon a new spirit of patriotism; of service and responsibility where each of us resolves to pitch in and work harder and look after not only ourselves, but each other.”

The people who we honor in this issue of SBU Life are patriots and scholars. They daily live a life of “service and responsibility” and “pitch in and work harder” while looking after those around them. Their names are dear to the SBU family, and I hope you are inspired by the stories of Dr. Gordon and Mrs. Judy Dutile, Chaplain Gary Gilmore ’79, Masters-at-Arms Brian Briggs ’88, and SBU student Sgt. Nathan Ward. All of these individuals work hard to serve others, and their sacrifices have enriched the lives of those whom they serve.

Change is coming to SBU as Gordon and Judy Dutile retire at the end of this year. The sacrifices they have made to serve the Lord have not been in vain. In the words of an old song, the Dutiles have concluded that “It Was Worth It All.” They will be missed as they begin a new chapter of their life. As they leave the rigors of academics and administration, serving their children and grandchildren is high on their agenda. The Dutiles are looking forward to more time for leisurely pursuits, but already they are exploring mission trip and teaching opportunities for their “retirement” years.

As you read through the magazine you will note many other changes at SBU. The University welcomed 453 new faces to campus during Welcome Week for new students in August. Their energy and enthusiasm is positively contagious as they take on the challenges of academic life. A new front entrance will soon greet visitors to SBU. The piles of dirt in front of the Sells Administration building slowly are transforming into new roads and landscaping in honor of former SBU President Dr. Jim Sells.

Another chapter is ahead for the College of Business and Computer Science as Dean David Whitlock leaves SBU for the presidency at a sister Baptist university. We will miss him and his family, but we wish them well as they begin a new life as first family at Oklahoma Baptist University.

Change. Universities are places of change as new students arrive and others graduate and move on to begin their lives. Scholarship reveals new methods of study and research brings new techniques and thought processes to the academy. New scholars bring fresh ideas and older scholars offer new wisdom as they mature in their disciplines.

While I am a creature who thrives on change, I sometimes wish we could freeze time or at least slow it down a bit. As my own children are preteens and teens, time passes quickly at our house. The kids seem to change daily as they learn who they are and how they relate to the world. It is at this time in their lives that I realize the importance of serving an unchanging God. As life changes rapidly around us, I pray we teach our children that God never changes. His love for us is unending. His plans for us are eternal. We sacrifice and serve for God, because He first sacrificed for us.

One Certainty: Things Change

The 2008-2009 academic year has gotten off to a great beginning. Our fall enrollment is outstanding and this follows a better than average enrollment for summer school (see story on p. 3). We also had good numbers in camps this summer. However, the financial crisis, which appears to be a world-wide problem, has presented challenges for SBU. One positive impact the current economic condition has had on SBU and other universities is that campus housing numbers are up. Evidently, the price of gasoline has encouraged more students to live on campus. Our residential numbers are at an all-time high.

In higher education, there is one certainty: things change.

If you have been to the Bolivar campus recently, you will have noticed the Jim Sells Memorial Front Entrance project is well underway. I believe that this is a very important project for our University. It honors Dr. Sells and it is very much needed as it certainly will improve the first impression people have of our campus. The project includes: filling in the ditch that runs adjacent to Springfield Avenue, a sidewalk running from Aldrich Road to Southwest Electric Company, a grand entrance in front of the Sells Administrative Center, expansion of the Sells Administration Center parking lot and the Jim Sells Memorial Garden.

Dr. David Whitlock has been unanimously elected by the Board of Trustees to be the next president of Oklahoma Baptist University. This is a compliment to David and it is a compliment to SBU. The selection of one of our deans to serve as the president of a sister Baptist university is a great compliment to all of us at SBU. We are very proud of David and we wish him well at OBU. We will miss his leadership at SBU, but I do know that God will have someone for us. We will use our normal search process and we will work hard at finding the exact right person to provide leadership for our College of Business and Computer Science.

This will be Dr. Gordon Dutile’s last semester as Provost. He will retire effective December 31, 2008. Gordon and Judy Dutile moved to Bolivar during the summer of 1980. For many years Gordon taught Greek and New Testament in the Redford College. He was an outstanding teacher and had a positive impact on countless young ministerial students, many of whom are now pastors, church staff members and missionaries. Fortunately for me and for the University, nine years ago Gordon agreed to serve as Provost. He has been a marvelous academic leader. He has the respect of faculty, other administrators and students. Under Gordon’s influence we have developed numerous academic programs that have greatly improved our University. All of us will miss Gordon; I will miss working with him on a daily basis. I will miss his wise counsel. However, if I get into too much trouble, I know where he lives and I will not be hesitant to ask for his help.

Unfortunately, Gordon is taking Judy into retirement with him. We will miss Judy, too, and she may be more difficult to replace than Gordon. Judy serves as the director for our Career Planning Center, serves as the director of our International Studies Program, she is a faculty member in the University Success Center, and is the sponsor for the Ambassadors. Gordon and Judy Dutile have been a part of our University for over 25 years and we will miss them very much.

Dr. David Whitlock has been unanimously elected by the Board of Trustees to be the next president of Oklahoma Baptist University. This is a compliment to David and it is a compliment to SBU. The selection of one of our deans to serve as the president of a sister Baptist university is a great compliment to all of us at SBU. We are very proud of David and we wish him well at OBU. We will miss his leadership at SBU, but I do know that God will have someone for us. We will use our normal search process and we will work hard at finding the exact right person to provide leadership for our College of Business and Computer Science.

The Lord, do not change.” And in Romans chapter 8, verse 28 we read, “And we know that God causes all things to work together for good to those who love God, to those who are called according to His purpose.” These are comforting verses to us during times of change. Personalities may come and go. Events may change. However, we must not change who we are and we must not change our mission at SBU.

Today, I can tell you that this University is strong and will remain strong. We have great people – a near record number of students who are some of the finest young people on the face of the earth, we have great faculty who are committed teachers, we have staff members who are deeply committed to SBU, we have a dedicated Board of Trustees who are committed to providing excellent leadership for the University, and we have a solid donor base who will help us through this national and world-wide financial crisis. And most important of all, we worship a God who never changes. Therefore, we must continue living out our mission statement on a daily basis. As long as we stay committed to our mission of being a “Christ-centered, caring academic community preparing students to be servant leaders in a global society,” the state of this University will remain healthy and strong.

C. Pat Taylor
President
Southwest Baptist University started off its 2008-09 school year on a high note with the second-largest freshmen class in the school's history, 453 freshmen, SBU President C. Pat Taylor told a group of community leaders during his recent SBU President’s Breakfast. But there’s more good news about the University than just a strong recruitment year.

“We ended last year in the black,” he said. “About half the colleges in the country would like to be able to say that.”

Total undergraduate enrollment is up 1.9 percent, at 2,803 this fall and 2,752 in the fall of 2007. “In some ways, it’s the strongest enrollment we’ve ever had,” he said. “Not only do we have good numbers, but we have good students. Our average freshman ACT score went from 22.94 to 23.” The national average ACT score is 21. SBU is a moderately selective institution.

The number of students who dropped out of the University and returned later decreased this fall. Taylor attributes the decrease to better retention practices.

Enrollment is up 8.4 percent at the University’s Mountain View campus, at 142 this year compared to 131 last year.

“We had had a steady decline there for eight years,” Dr. Taylor said. “We had been getting concerned about its survival. Hopefully, we’ve turned a corner there.” Elementary education is the most popular major offered on the Mountain View campus.

The Salem campus’s enrollment is up 4.8 percent with a ratio of 114 full-time students to 106 part-time students. Dr. Taylor said enrollment at Salem is usually more than 50 percent part-time, so the change to having more full-time students than part-time is positive.

The Springfield campus, which focuses on the nursing program and other allied health programs, is up to 612 from 603. “We’ve been at capacity (600) there for about four years,” Dr. Taylor said.

At the October Board of Trustees meeting, Dr. Taylor announced that graduate student enrollment totaled 853 bringing the University to a grand total of 3,656 students.
Dr. Taylor said enrollment has topped 3,600 only twice in the University’s history, in 1998 and 1999 when the University operated a campus at Poplar Bluff.

Increased enrollment has presented the University with a new challenge of providing enough housing for students. With 1,104 beds on campus and 26 students purchasing private rooms, only 23 beds are vacant in campus housing, and they all are in girls’ living quarters.

“The men’s side of housing is completely full,” Dr. Taylor said. “That’s problematic, but it’s a good problem to have.”

Other information Dr. Taylor shared:

- The University is planning a fund-raising campaign that will kick off in the spring with a primary focus of building the University’s endowment. Currently at about $19 million, the goal is to build the endowment to $40 million.
- Major projects taking place on campus now include renovating the swimming pool, installing an elevator in the Sells Administration Building and constructing a new front entrance in memory of former SBU President and Chancellor Dr. James Sells.
- The University added a journalism major this year.
- Undergraduate students represent 97 of 114 Missouri counties and 266 Missouri communities. Ten percent of students list an address in Polk County. About 1 in 9 students are from the Kansas City area, with 7 percent of students from Jackson County.
- Sixty-nine percent, or 1,094, of undergraduate students are from Missouri with 100 students from Kansas and 68 from Illinois. International students account for 2 percent of the student body, with 16 foreign countries and six continents represented.
- Thirty-three percent of students are enrolled in the College of Education and Social Sciences. The College of Business and Computer Science is the second largest and fastest-growing college with 17 percent of students enrolled in it.
- Fifty-four percent of undergraduate students are female and 46 percent male, a statistic that has varied no more than 2 percent during Taylor’s 12 years as SBU president.
Southwest Baptist University began construction in September on a new Springfield Avenue entrance in memory of Dr. Jim Sells, former chancellor and University president. “This will give us a much better first impression of the University,” said Dr. C. Pat Taylor, SBU president.

The new entrance, which is scheduled to be completed in mid-December, will replace the north entrance near Jester Learning and Performance Center. The south entrance near the intersection of Springfield Avenue and Aldrich Road may be gated and used as an overflow entrance when events on campus bring a lot of traffic. An entrance and exit lane with a new street, Jim Sells Avenue, will connect Estep Drive and Anderson Drive.

Taylor says other renovations will be completed to enhance SBU’s look, including the installation of underground drainage and culverts, a sidewalk along Springfield Avenue and filling the ditch between the road and campus.

“The first thing is filling that ugly ditch,” said Taylor. “Our first impression for parents and students is that ditch. It has bothered me for years.”

A fence will run along the front of the property from Aldrich Road to the property line at Southwest Electric. The parking lot in front of Sells Administrative Center will be expanded to add 14 parking spaces. The Jim Sells Memorial Garden will be in front of the parking lot.

About 70 percent of the $1 million needed to complete the project has been raised. A lead donor was secured in January. “I like to be at 75 percent before I start a project,” said Taylor. “We think we’re close.”

The University constructed the Joyce Sells Heritage Center in the Harriett K. Hutchens Library. The heritage center will be dedicated with the new entrance.

“We think this is a project that is great for our campus and will give a better aesthetic appeal and be a great thing for the city,” said Taylor.
Most professors view summer break as a chance to relax, but for Dr. Linda Wooderson, dean of the college of education and social sciences, this past summer introduced an entirely new kind of challenge: surviving boot camp.

“We should all do something different, out of the norm,” said Wooderson.

Because Southwest Baptist University’s Reserved Officers’ Training Corps (ROTC) program is housed in the College of Education and Social Sciences, ROTC invited Wooderson to attend boot camp so that she could learn more about the program and explain it to interested students. “I’m all for these big challenges,” said Wooderson. “So, by George, I did it!”
Wooderson began training herself several weeks early by practicing the exercises she would need to perform in boot camp. She frequently ran, biked and walked. She also went rappelling with ROTC students. Perhaps the most intensive aspect of her training was in the pool. Wooderson taught herself to swim laps while wearing all of her clothes and holding a 10-pound weight, which actually weighed 100 pounds in the water. She learned to jump into the pool from a high dive while holding a rifle and without getting the rifle wet.

Wooderson’s competitive spirit kept her motivated throughout the exhausting training. “I didn’t want to embarrass SBU,” said Wooderson. “I wanted to win this thing!” As a result, she felt well-prepared for boot camp. During her five days there, Wooderson successfully completed all of the activities and exercises.

Only one activity, maneuvering through tree tops, surprised her. Roughly one-third of the 90 attendees participated. Wooderson was surprised at the low participation. Although she had no practice in this area, Wooderson did not hesitate to join the exercise. “I was afraid the whole time, but I just did it,” said Wooderson.

The boot camp was held at Fort Knox in Louisville, Ky. Although the majority of her time was spent training, Wooderson enjoyed visiting the Army base and viewing the Fort Knox Bullion Depository, where the United States government stores gold.
Dr. Ronda Credille ’80, associate professor of business administration, traveled to Tomsk, Siberia, Russia, with Dr. Janet Juhlin ’73, professor and director of institutional effectiveness, and Dr. Bob Klostermeyer, associate professor of political science in June, and taught marketing seminars at Tomsk State University (TSU). This was Dr. Credille’s third opportunity to teach marketing at Tomsk State University. The attendance at the seminars was even larger than in previous years.

Dr. Baochuan Lu, assistant professor of computer and information sciences, completed the open source software project he began over the summer. Dr. Lu’s project was funded by Google.

Jeffrey Kimball ’92, instructor of computer and information sciences, has begun work on his Ph.D. at Nova Southeastern University.

Dr. Tim DeClue, professor of computer and information sciences, created a senior project course that is breaking ground this year by accepting the first-ever international software project. The project, which will be completed for the International Mission Board (IMB) of the Southern Baptist Convention, will help the IMB track church growth and church training programs. The project sponsor will be in India. The project not only marks the first international project for the CIS department, but it also provides strong evidence supporting SBU’s mission statement that says in part that SBU students are “servant leaders in a global society.”

Dr. Kevin Hopkins, chair and professor of mathematics, was selected to participate in the annual reading and scoring of the College Board’s Advanced Placement Examination in June. He read and scored in Advanced Placement Calculus. The examination allows high school students to receive credit or advanced placement in mathematics courses upon entering college based upon their scores.

Dr. Robert Kitchin, professor and chair of chemistry and physics, co-presented with Dr. Perry A. Tompkins, dean of the College of Mathematics and Science, at the International Institute for Christian Studies conference held July 17-19 in Kansas City, Mo. Their paper titled “Developing Undergraduates with a Synergistic Worldview Including Science and Christian Faith” was co-written with Dr. Gary O. Gray, former dean of the College of Science and Mathematics at SBU.

Dr. Bing Bayer, professor of Old Testament and Hebrew, preached at Calvary Baptist Church, Republic, and at Windermere Baptist Conference Center for the summer staff. He also toured Israel, August 12-22.

Dr. Don Denton, associate professor of theology, completed a chapter, “Being Interpreted by the Parables: Critical Realism as Hermeneutical Epistemology,” for inclusion in an upcoming volume, Jesus as Israel’s Messiah: Engaging the Work of N. Thomas Wright (London: T&T Clark, 2009). He is working with a student to charter a local chapter of Theta Alpha Kappa, the national honor society for religious and theological studies, for which he will serve as faculty advisor and liaison to the national organization. The Redford College of Theology and Ministry will induct their first group of students into the society this fall. Denton also gave a presentation on “Postmodernism in Theology and Culture” at the faculty workshop in August.

Dr. Zach Manis, assistant professor of philosophy, is currently working on a manuscript for Philosophy of Religion: Thinking About Faith, Second Edition, a book co-authored with Dr. C. Stephen Evans (Baylor University) to be published by InterVarsity Press. He also had papers accepted for presentation at three upcoming conferences: “On Divine Essential Goodness and the Nature of Divine Freedom,” to be presented at the Baptist Association of Philosophy Teachers conference (Oct. 3-5); “Foundations for a Kierkegaardian Account of Moral Obligation,” to be presented at the Southwestern Philosophical Society conference (Nov. 14-16); and “A Molinist Solution to the Problem of Divine Freedom,” to be presented at the Central Division meeting of the American Philosophical Association (Feb. 18-21, 2009). He gave presented at the Baptist Association of Philosophy Teachers conference (Oct. 3-5); “Foundations for a Kierkegaardian Account of Moral Obligation,” to be presented at the Southwestern Philosophical Society conference (Nov. 14-16); and “A Molinist Solution to the Problem of Divine Freedom,” to be presented at the Central Division meeting of the American Philosophical Association (Feb. 18-21, 2009). He gave a short presentation titled “Kierkegaard on the Problem of Abraham” at the fall faculty workshop and led an afternoon discussion along with Dr. Denton on the topic of postmodernism.

Dr. Duke Jones, assistant professor of Christian education, taught New Testament Survey at Dallas Baptist University this summer. He is currently serving as the interim pastor of Hopewell Baptist Church.

Dr. Kelly Malone, assistant professor of intercultural studies, was recently appointed to the Stanton Chair of Evangelism. He preached during services at Southern Hills Baptist Church and First Baptist Church, Bolivar. In July, he participated in a mission trip to Delhi, India, sponsored by the IMB. This included student workers and university professors who will have the opportunity to encourage future mission involvement of their students in India.

Morgan Gallatin ’84, (right) assistant professor and chair of the art department, Grant Cochran ’84, instructor of graphic design, and Dianna Callahan, lecturer of art, presented a faculty art exhibit in the SBU Driskill Gallery during August and September.

During the summer Gallatin and Cochran prepared posters representing each of the seven Revelation churches. These posters have been on display at First Baptist Church, Bolivar, and will be part of a sermon series on these churches.

Callahan presented a program on fiber arts in June to the Bolivar Area Quilt Society. In August, she entered five pieces of art and art quilts in the Ozark Empire Fair and won four blue ribbons, one red ribbon, one sponsor’s choice award, and one champion ribbon. In October, she will serve as juror for the Springfield Visual Arts Alliance juried exhibit at Juanita K. Hammons Hall for the Performing Arts.

Dr. Linda Wooderson ’78, dean of the College of Education and Social Sciences, was the guest speaker for the New Teacher Welcome Luncheon, sponsored by the Bolivar Chamber of Commerce, held in Bolivar at the Tea Garden Café on August 5. Teaching experiences past, present, and future were revealed to the audience with encouragement given to the new teachers to enjoy their calling to teach.

On August 11-13, Dr. Wooderson taught a Red Cross Instructor’s Course for Cardiopulmonary Resuscitation (CPR), Automated External Defibrillator (AED) and First Aid to SBU personnel involved in the Meyer Wellness and Sports Center and the Department of Safety and Security.

Dr. Shelley Kilpatrick, associate professor of psychology, has been selected as an Advanced Placement Statistics grader. She also attended and presented at the Association for Psychological Science teaching pre-conference in May.

Dr. Richard Brewer ’78, professor of psychology, presented at two sessions at a Young Adult’s Retreat in Branson in June.

Dr. Kevin Schriver ’83, professor and department chair of behavioral sciences, chaired the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) Division II Academic Requirements Committee in June. He also attended the committee meeting of the High School Review Group of the NCAA.

Sarah Russback ’86, assistant professor of education, Mountain View, wrote a paper titled “The Swinging of the Pendulum: Curricular Conflicts in Higher Education” that has been published in a monograph titled Curriculum Wars: The Cultural, Organizational, and Instructional Conflicts in Curriculum Policy and Practice. She presented the paper at a symposium in late spring at Arkansas State University. It was part of a cohort project in her doctoral program.

Dr. Timothy Wood, assistant professor of history, delivered a lecture titled “Religion and Modernism in the 1920’s” at the Teaching American History Conference in Louisville, KY.

Dr. Robert Kitchin, professor and chair of chemistry and physics, Eldonna DeWeese, editor of the Southern Baptist Periodical Index housed at SBU’s Harriett K. Hutchens Library, and Sharina Smith, senior director for marketing and communications, have been selected for inclusion in the 2009 Edition of Marquis Who’s Who in America.

Dr. Stephanie Miller ’80, vice president for enrollment management and Darren Crowder ’98, director of admissions, presented “Strategies for a Comprehensive Enrollment Management Plan and the Impact on Enrollment” at the 2008 Noel-Levitz National Convention. Dr. Miller also presented “Five Steps to Compelling Recruitment Communications” with Kathryn Karford, executive consultant for Noel-Levitz.
The SBU Department of Athletics is proud to announce the inductees of the SBU Athletics Hall of Fame, Class of 2009. Part of our mission is to honor those who share our vision of excellence. As such, Southwest Baptist University will host the SBU Honors Night and Hall of Fame Banquet on February 14, 2009. This event will honor our senior athletes for their accomplishments in the classroom, on the court, and on the field. Our hope is that our affirmation of these senior athletes will encourage underclassmen to work toward academic success and graduation. Also that night, we will honor the inductees of the Class of 2009. These alumni will be honored for their achievements in their collegiate athletic careers as well as later contributions to family and community.

1984 MEN’S TENNIS TEAM

NAIA national co-champions

The 1984 men’s tennis team earned a place in SBU history as NAIA national co-champions. Raul Saad (Argentina), who now lives in Naples, Fla., was named an All-American and All-District 16. Sven Groeneveld (Holland), who is a professional coach of Ana Ivanovic (French Open singles champion) was named All-American and All-District 16. Kevin Kopp (Jefferson City, Mo.) is now a banker in Indianapolis. Kopp was named an All-American, and was a member of the doubles national championship team. Gregg Yarbrough (Steele, Mo.) is currently a public school principal. He was named an All-American, and was a member of the doubles national championship team. Ronen Graziani (Israel), is a tennis camp owner and real estate agent in Naples, Fla. He was named All-District 16. David Smashey (Bolivar, Mo.) is a science teacher in Willard, Mo. Smashey was named All-District 16. Head coach John Bryant is in his 43rd season at the Bearcat tennis helm.
Baker played football for SBU for four seasons, and was one of the team’s tri-captains in 1987 and 1989. He is SBU’s all-time leading rusher with 3,892 yards on 823 carries. Baker holds SBU records for points scored in a game (30), in a season (114), and in a career (270). He holds the SBU record for touchdowns scored in a game (5), in a season (19), and in a career (45). Baker holds the SBU record rushing attempts and rushing yards in a game (43, 238), in a season (286, 1391), and in a career (823, 3892). Baker was named to the Football Gazette All-American Second Team in 1989. He was the MIAA Offensive Player of the year in 1989. He played for coach Garry Brandt from 1985-87 and later for Jim Hall in 1989.

Elliott was a 6’2” guard who played basketball for the Bearcats under coach John Edwards for four seasons. Elliott ranks third on SBU’s all-time scoring list, and fourth on SBU’s all-time field goals made list. He scored 606 points during the 1972-73 season, which is the third highest point total in Bearcat history. That year, he attempted 540 field goals, the most ever attempted by a player at SBU. On February 27, 1973, Elliott became the first SBU Bearcat to score 40 points in a game. Elliott’s 40 points against Arkansas Tech was later matched by John Willis (1989). Elliott did emerge from the contest with 20 successful field goals, which is a single-game record he holds by himself.

Psalmonds played softball for two seasons at SBU. In 1980, she earned All-State honors, pitched five games at regionals, which were all won by SBU, and had a 0.21 ERA during post-season play. She recorded two 16-strikeout performances during the 1980 season. In 1981, she was named the team’s co-captain. That same season, Psalmonds was named to the All-Region and All-State teams with a 13-4 record with a 0.80 ERA (which included a 0.00 ERA and 9 strikeouts during the NAIA regionals). Psalmonds played for the two winningest teams in SBU softball history (34-11 in 1980 and 36-9 in 1981) under coach Jo Ann Harrison. The 1980 team won the regional championship and placed 5th at the NAIA National Championship. The 1981 team placed 4th at regionals and received an at-large invitation to the NAIA National Championship, where they went 1-2.

Southwest Baptist University’s men’s and women’s cross-country teams celebrated first and third place victories at this year’s MIAA Championship, and the coach who led them to the top received an MIAA honor.

The men’s cross-country team took first place at the MIAA Championship in October. They finished with a 63-point total at the event hosted by the University of Central Missouri.

Shawn Etzenhouser ran a 25:46.23 to finish in fourth place. Jeremy Glassmaker finished in seventh place (25:52.78) and Michael McCampbell finished in eighth (26:02.02). The three were named first-team All-MIAA athletes.

The women’s team finished in third place with 83 points. Courtney Ayers led the team with her third place finish (22:57.05). Chelsea Strahm finished in 10th place with a time of 23:24.63. Both were named All-MIAA athletes.

Cross country coach Corey McElhaney was selected as the men’s MIAA Cross Country Coach of the Year.

McElhaney is in his second season leading the Bearcats. His success in leading the cross-country team to its first ever men’s championship win is noteworthy because he led them... to the top in the absence of All-American Michael Pierce (He is a medical redshirt this season).

This is McElhaney’s first MIAA Coach of the Year award and the second in three seasons that an SBU cross-country coach. Jeff DeLong received the award in 2006, his final season at the University.

Brent Good, director of athletics, commented on McElhaney’s achievement.

“I’m extremely proud of Coach McElhaney’s recognition as the MIAA’s Coach of the Year. It’s evident we hired the right person two years ago. The fact that he has received this award in his second year of leading the program speaks volumes.”
For Southwest Baptist University’s Joel Crisler, it was an extra special Homecoming. Crisler is a freshman linebacker from Liberty (Mo.) High School. And on that Saturday afternoon, a packed crowd at SBU’s Plaster Stadium was visibly moved, as they watched Crisler’s father, Lieutenant Colonel (LTC) R. Patrick Crisler, administer the oath of office to his son.

Joel Crisler accepted a three-year scholarship for the Army ROTC. When he learned that his father, LTC Crisler (who is stationed in England) happened to be travelling to the United States, the younger Crisler began to envision standing at midfield, being sworn in by his father, in front of his team, coaches, classmates, and SBU Alumni.

Six minutes before the game, the fans stood at attention for the opening prayer and the singing of the Star Spangled Banner, as they usually do. They watched two individuals march to the 50-yard line, and approach a microphone stand. As Joel Crisler stood in his SBU Football uniform with his right hand raised, he faced his father, who was wearing his Army class A military uniform. In a moving, but “all business” exchange, LTC Crisler administered the oath to his son. After the oath, the two hugged, and they stepped off the field together. A capacity crowd had just witnessed an amazing ceremony.

“For me, I would put this right up there with life’s most memorable events,” said SBU’s Director of Athletics, Brent Good. “I just happened to have lunch with Joel in our cafeteria a couple of days before that. We got to know each other, discovered our backgrounds, and exchanged stories about what it was like to grow up in a military family.

“And because I grew up in the military, I have great respect for what took place on our field,” continued Good. “This involved a young man on our football team, and his father, who have chosen to defend our country. I’ve never heard the words of that oath, and I suspect that the people in attendance hadn’t heard it either. It was special, to say the least. That’s why people give their life for our country – because they have taken the very oath we heard at that moment.”

As students during Welcome Week at SBU, we learn to recite the University mission, which acknowledges SBU’s academic objective to prepare students to “be servant leaders in a global society.” Sergeant Nathan Ward has put his academic career at SBU on hold to get hands-on experience as a servant leader as he lives a life of service with the United States military in Iraq.

Nathan came to SBU in August 2005 to pursue a computer science degree. Just one month before, he had started basic training with the National Guard. Two weeks after school had begun, Hurricane Katrina approached the country’s gulf coast and destroyed much of New Orleans. Nathan was activated and sent to Louisiana to help with recovery efforts.

When he returned to Bolivar in November, Nathan proposed to his girlfriend Megan, who was then a junior at SBU. They married in June 2006. January 2007 brought the ice storm to Missouri and Nathan was activated and sent to Louisiana to help with recovery efforts.

One day Nathan sat me down on the couch and said he had some news,” said Megan. “He told me that he was going to be deployed to Iraq and that he was leaving in January.”

Megan graduated from SBU in December 2007 and then Nathan left at the end of January for training at Camp Clark. After a deployment ceremony in February and training in New Jersey until April, Nathan was deployed to Kuwait. After spending two weeks there, he went to Iraq.

Because he was activated, Nathan’s college career had to be put on hold. Megan is grateful for the faculty and staff at SBU that have been supportive of his service.

“Nathan’s professors and advisor have been so supportive with the things that have caused him to miss class,” Megan said. “It takes a tremendous amount of stress off of us knowing that he can finish up when he gets back.”

Nathan serves as military police. He works on a squad responsible for the set-up and upkeep of three Iraqi police stations. Each day, Nathan and his squad drive 45 miles to check on the stations and deliver supplies. As military police, Nathan’s squad also works security when important people visit the area and keep an eye out for IEDs (improvised explosive devices).

Megan asks that everyone continue to pray for Nathan’s safety and his family’s patience during this time. As a sergeant, Nathan has the opportunity to share his faith with those who work underneath him.
“We’re halfway through this and on the downward slope,” said Megan. “I am anxious for him to get home. Pray for patience as we go through this last part and pray we will continue to let God work with what we’ve been given- not just to endure it, but to grow in it.”

Although this is a hard time for Nathan and Megan, she says many blessings have come from this journey.

“People are supporting Nathan that he doesn’t even know. They’re praying for him and they appreciate what he’s doing,” said Megan. “I am amazed at how our relationship has grown through this. We’ve been able to grow and learn more about each other. We’ve had to learn different ways to show that we love each other. This has been a good experience to look at our relationship in a different way.”

Nathan will return to the states in February.

“I think about the core values that SBU tries to instill in its students through the Spiritual Formation class,” said Megan. “I can’t imagine making it through this without my faith and some of the things I learned at SBU.”

This past week our very own SGT Nathan Ward was awarded the Army Achievement Medal and Combat Action Badge. The Army Achievement Medal was awarded to each member of his squad for their work and accomplishments while at FOB McHenry. The Combat Action Badge is awarded to any soldier performing assigned duties in an area where there is hostile fire or imminent danger, who is personally present and actively engaging or being engaged by the enemy, and performing satisfactorily in accordance with the prescribed rules of engagement (according to www.army.mil). Nathan never does anything halfway... I was already proud of him before, but I am even more proud now!
THE FOLLOWING QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS ARE EXCERPTS FROM NATHAN’S NEWSLETTERS HE SENDS TO FAMILY AND FRIENDS. SBU LIFE DID NOT HAVE A PERSONAL INTERVIEW WITH WARD.

WHAT DO YOU EAT ON A NORMAL DAY?
“They always have eggs, bacon, and biscuits and gravy. I usually just get some muffins and fruit. If we’re out on a mission for lunch, I usually bring snacks. If I get real hungry we have MREs in the back of the truck. There are about 30 different meals they cook for us spread between the two meal times. Sometimes I get ice cream while I’m at the ‘chow’ hall but if you don’t eat it fast it turns into a shake.”

WHAT IS THE STRANGEST/MOST INTERESTING FOOD YOU HAVE EATEN?
“The most interesting food I’ve eaten so far is a sandwich called a falaffle. A falaffle is a hot dog-like bun baked and stuffed with onions, cucumbers, tomatoes and fried humus.”

WHAT ARE THE TOILET/SHOWER FACILITIES LIKE?
“There are a few buildings that look like small mobile homes. In one are a few toilets and sinks and in the other are showers and sinks.

WHAT DO YOU DO IN YOUR SPARE TIME?
“I usually have a couple of hours a day to myself. I’ve watched a lot of movies. Naps are really popular too, especially when it’s really hot outside. When we first got here it was still kind of cool in the evenings so we sat outside and played cards or got a game of touch football going.”

WHAT IS THE MOST INTERESTING THING YOU HAVE SEEN?
“The most interesting thing I’ve seen is the difference in lifestyle that there is compared to back home. Things are a lot simpler and less hectic around here. People do what they need to do to feed their families or make a living.”

DO YOU FEEL LIKE WHAT YOU ARE DOING THERE IS MAKING A DIFFERENCE?
“Yes, I honestly feel that we’re making a difference. It may not be the drastic changes that were made when the war started but just in the few months I’ve been here, I can see a big improvement in the ability of the Iraqi Police. As long as they can continue to improve, they will be able to serve and protect the communities when we’re gone.”
Sacrifice For Service
Dr. Gordon & Mrs. Judy Dutile
by Sharina Smith
If you spend very much time with Dr. Gordon Dutile, you know he was a much-beloved, if much-feared professor. The saying goes that he told his students they “got all the grace they were going to get at the foot of the cross.” In his classes, “salvation was by works alone.” If you have had any connection with Judy Dutile, you know that the words, “high energy” do not even begin to describe her frenetic work pace. Those who know the Dutiles well know they are at their best when they are together. After 45 years of marriage, 25 of them working for the same employer, Judy and Gordon are excited about their retirement on December 31, 2008. The SBU family is going to miss their steadfast presence and their many academic and administrative contributions to the University, but Judy and Gordon are counting down the days until they can get to work on their “bucket list.”

Gordon came to SBU in the fall of 1980 as assistant professor of Bible to teach Greek and New Testament in what was then known as the Redford School of Theology. The story of how Gordon came to be a Bible scholar is worth the telling.

I married an engineer.

Before Gordon was called to be a pastor, he was working for McDonnell-Douglas Aircraft Corporation in St. Louis as a senior electronics engineer. His transition from that job to the ministry was the first of many sacrifices the Dutiles made to serve the Lord.

“I sensed it wasn’t where God wanted me to spend my life,” Gordon said of his position as an engineer. “Over the course of a year in 1969, I felt God calling me to be a pastor. Judy was not very keen on the idea. I had thought about going back to school to work on a history degree. I had worked on a master’s degree in math.” Neither of these options had the strength of call that the ministry had for Gordon, but he respected Judy’s reticence to leave the life she loved. “I figured if God called me, He would call her. I waited until God called her. I came home one day and she was ready.”

“The idea of moving and Gordon going to seminary was hard on me,” Judy said. “I had married an engineer. I was not expecting him to be a pastor. We had bought a house. [Gordon interjected: “She had a spoiled dog.”] I had a child, I was at home full-time. When we moved to Fort Worth, I had to go back to work full-time. We left St. Louis for Ft. Worth on July 31, 1970.”

Despite acknowledging the painfulness of the material sacrifices, Judy recalled the blessings, “We had a very supportive network. Gordon had three aunts in the area and a fourth aunt 50 miles from Fort Worth.” Judy also wondered at the time if God had forgotten them in Fort Worth, “When Gordon left for seminary, he wanted to be a pastor but discovered he wanted to earn a doctorate. What was to be three years there turned out to be 10 years. I have to admit, I wondered ‘Has God forgotten us in the wilderness?’”

I came for a one-year trial.

When asked how he found out about the position at SBU, Gordon said his predecessor announced he was leaving as New Testament teacher to go to Criswell Bible College. H.K. Neely was dean here at the time. His friend Dr. Harry Hunt, was on the faculty at Fort Worth - he was an Old Testament scholar. Hunt called Dr. J.W. MacGorman and he recommended me. I came on a one-year trial. Dr. Neely said, “When SBU gets a new dean he might want someone else as the New Testament teacher.”

Once again the Dutiles made sacrifices to honor God’s calling, but this time their children were asked to give up things, too. “The move to Bolivar was much harder on our older daughter, Penny,” Gordon said. “She was in seventh grade, 12 years old;
she had been in a gifted program studying French and Spanish. We petitioned the school here to let her continue her language studies, but they said no. The move was very hard on Penny. Shonda was five and went all her years to school here. Penny now considers this home."

Gordon is starting his 29th year at SBU, but he will retire before its completion. In 1999, Gordon was appointed acting provost after Provost Dr. M. Michael Awad died. "I didn't want to be provost. After Dr. Awad died, I was interim provost," Gordon said. "I missed teaching: I still do. I don't miss giving tests, but I miss the classroom." Gordon's sacrifice was SBU's gain, since the University not only gained an exceptional scholar as provost, but the Redford College was blessed with the return of an alumnus who had earned a reputation from a highly regarded colleague: "I had wanted to bring Dr. [Rodney] Reeves to SBU - I had used him as an adjunct. My daughter stood outside his door while he taught and said, 'Daddy, if there's any way you can get him here you should hire him.'"

"Rodney told me he wanted my job. I told him I'd have to retire or die because I wasn't going into administration."

After spending the past eight years in administration, Gordon said the hardest part is "dealing with personnel issues. You are dealing with people's lives. Sometimes you have to make a hard decision when a relationship just doesn't work or is not in the best interest of the student or University. I can make those decisions but I don't like to."

How are we going to replace her?

When Gordon and Judy moved to Bolivar, Judy decided not to work full-time until the girls were a bit older. She first began teaching at SBU as an adjunct and also served as secretary to Dean Charles Chaney in the Redford School. Soon after Judy received her master's degree in 1983, she became Director of the Child Studies Center and has spent 25 years working in various capacities at the University, often working in several positions at the same time.

When home economics was phased out, Judy moved to the Education Department and taught early childhood classes. When Dr. Little retired, Judy became Director of International Studies and Dual Credit. Since the Dutiles announced their retirement, SBU President C. Pat Taylor has said several times that "when Gordon retires we will miss him, but when Judy retires we don't know how we are going to replace her." Judy currently holds the following positions: Director of International Studies, Director of Career Services, Academic Advisor in the University Success Center, and sponsor for the Ambassadors.

Defining moments for Gordon

When he was asked, it did not take Gordon long to determine his defining moment at SBU: "I had been here four years. As a freshman teacher, I had a freshman student, Ethel Pierce, who loved languages. She took Spanish and three years of Greek. She went into seminary at Fort Worth. At the time they had a policy that no matter how much Greek you had in college, you had to start over. I asked them to let her start at the upper level, third year. They were reluctant to do this, but the dean said if Gordon is recommending her, then we'd give her a shot. She made A's and B's in every class she took. Her husband is a pastor. He consults his wife on Greek.

"This affirmed to me I was able to teach in a way that made quality students. Then they let others of my students do this including Billy Russell. I told my teacher Dr. Virtus Gideon, 'If I can't teach students at the level you do, that is an indictment of you since you taught me how to teach.'"

Another defining moment came more recently for Gordon: "Someone came to me at Bernard Holmes' funeral and said they have kept all their notes from my class and still refer to them."

Gordon's toughness in class is legendary. Judy said, "Penny avoided Gordon's classes." Gordon said Shonda was in a lot of Judy's classes, and took my New Testament class. Our oldest son-in-law was told: "If you want to protect your GPA, don't take Dutile!"

Defining moments for Judy

Judy said the growth of the International Studies program is her proudest accomplishment: "We had petitioned faculty senate to support this program. I am proud of the growth of International Studies here and the number of students we have studying abroad outside of the Intercultural Studies program."

Referring to the flags from many nations that now hang in the lobbies of the Mabee Chapel and the Sells Administration building Judy said, “I have realized a vision of getting the flags to represent our diversity.” Soon these flag displays will have plaques describing Judy’s vision to have flags representing the countries of students, faculty, and staff from around the world who have studied and served at SBU.

Judy views her work with international students at SBU as a ministry more than as a recruiting function: “We did go on a recruiting trip to China. Our admissions and athletic teams recruit abroad. Missionary department scholarships have been attractive to students. I really do not recruit. My ministry is to acclimate the students once they get here. Yesterday, I took a student from Ghana to help him get work at the cafeteria here, since they can only work on campus. Standing there with him is what I see as my ministry. I help the students get Social Security numbers by taking them where they need to go and I get to stand beside them.”

While there is much to be said for having someone beside you while doing paperwork in a foreign place, there is no substitute for the maternal touch of food and gifts. Judy understands this need and makes sure her international students feel loved. “I give them four gift bags a year. They never know what will be in them.”

While some couples do not like working for the same company, Gordon said working in the same place as Judy has been “great.” Judy nodded her agreement and finished his sentence saying they rode to campus together and enjoyed attending activities at SBU. Judy said, “We love going to our theatre and music department events, especially with their leadership today.”

“Gordon was teaching pastors from the bush. I taught their wives English and child development. In the evenings we did marriage workshops.” Gordon said, “It was a foreign concept to them to treat their wives with dignity and respect.”

Plans for their future

When asked about their plans for the future after December 31, 2008, Gordon and Judy noticeably brightened and were full of ideas. Judy replied first, “I would like to do something like the Africa mission trip again. I’ll be doing things on my bucket list!” To which Gordon replied, “I’ll be doing things on her bucket list!”

Gordon is grateful to be leaving SBU with strong “academic leadership in deans and faculty who are capable and committed with a sense of call to mission.”
Gordon had his own bucket list, too. “My hobby is wood-working. I look forward to doing things for Judy and the kids. We enjoy working in our yard together.”

The Dutiles even have a few far-out and crazy things on their retirement “to do” lists. Gordon said he “always wanted to learn to play guitar” even though he “never had any music lessons.” Judy had just one word on this section of her list: “clog.” Gordon quickly responded, “I want to see this!” without missing a beat. Judy said she also wishes to learn how to play the dulcimer. “Kurt Caddy built her one so she better learn to play that!” Gordon said.

Places in the U.S. to which the Dutiles would like to travel include the Northeast for fall foliage viewing, the Pacific Northwest, and Washington D.C. Places to go abroad include Italy and Ireland.

Future hopes for SBU

When asked what their hopes and prayers were for the future of SBU, Judy said hers was from Revelation: “I don’t want SBU to leave its first love. The play, God’s Mighty Oak, says this best. Every time I see it or think of it I am reminded that I don’t want SBU to ever lose sight of its mission.”

Gordon’s vision was that “SBU would produce some intellectual giants in educational pursuits. Some people think if you are a person of deep faith, you leave intellect at the door.” Gordon said there are “scientists that are Christians who wouldn’t be the same without their faith. They seek to understand everything they can about creation. They have a solid biblical worldview for everything they do in life. Isaac Newton was a scientist who worked from a Christian perspective. He started from that perspective. Some say they would not be accepted by the scientific community if they had this perspective.”

Judy interrupted to say that Nancy Pearcy has been a big influence on Gordon with her book, Total Truth: Liberating Christianity from Its Cultural Captivity.

“It will be worth it all.”

The Dutiles have many fond memories from their 28 years as part of the SBU family. They raised their daughters in the SBU family; both girls graduated from SBU and married SBU graduates. They both have celebrated academic and administrative successes. They both have watched students make sacrifices in order to graduate from SBU. They have watched the University Success Center and the Honors Program develop and become instrumental in student success at SBU. Both Gordon and Judy’s favorite tradition is the singing of the Lord’s Prayer at the end of SBU gatherings.

Gordon is grateful to be leaving SBU with strong “academic leadership in deans and faculty who are capable and committed with a sense of call to mission.”

Gordon said another point of gratitude is the possibilities for people to grow at SBU: “My primary responsibility has been working with faculty, but I receive a lot of support from staff. I never take anyone for granted. The people who clean buildings and take care of grounds, some of them have moved into academic support areas. One of my administrative assistants in Redford began as a housekeeper. SBU has given people opportunities to move into new positions.”

There are many people who have impacted the Dutiles’ life at SBU. Judy listed several people who made an impact: “Pat and Don Baker always have been steadfast. We can’t forget Dr. Dan Cochran and his family’s hospitality to us. From our first night here, they opened their home to us, loved our children, made our children feel special, and called them by name.”

As they grew up and became SBU students, the Dutiles’ daughters had plenty of faculty influence on their lives, but especially noteworthy to Penny was Dr. Twila Smith, Dr. Dan Cochran, and Dr. Susan Lynch. Influencing Shonda the most were Dr. Linda Wooderson, Dr. Judy Bryant, and Judy Wollard.

Judy and Gordon also agreed that Pat and Judy Taylor have been especially influential with their positive attitude. “They are the eternal optimists. They see the glass half-full,” said Judy. “We see the glass half-empty.”

Learning how to set goals and how to face adversity are among the most important lessons the Dutiles have learned during their 45 years together. “It Will be Worth it All” was my theme song when we started seminary,” Judy said. “I did not want to be there. I had to keep reminding myself: ‘It will be worth it all.” Although the Dutiles have made many sacrifices for their years of service to God and SBU, they realize it has been worth it all.
We have various holidays throughout the year — Memorial Day, Flag Day, Fourth of July, Veteran’s Day — during which it is customary to remember those who serve our country and protect our freedoms by serving abroad in the military. Brian David Briggs ’88 is a fellow Bearcat who we can remember as we watch those fireworks shimmer in the sky or hear that patriotic music. Brian has been serving U.S. Americans on the sands of Iraq while his family patiently waits in Bloomington, Ill. for his return.

Brian graduated from Southwest Baptist University with a degree in computer science. While he was a student here, Brian played on SBU’s second football team in 1984 as an offensive lineman. Playing football not only offered Brian the opportunity to be a part of a team but also gave him the opportunity to meet the woman who would later become his wife.

Beth Delameter ’88 was the manager of the football team when she and Brian met. Through the football team, Beth and Brian were able to grow closer, and two weeks before Brian’s May graduation, the couple married. Beth graduated in December of 1988 with a degree in Psychology. Beth says that SBU was a good place to start a relationship. “[SBU] was a safe zone,” said Beth. SBU was also the beginning of many lasting friendships for the Briggs, friendships they have maintained for 20 years.

Brian and Beth moved to Bloomington, Ill., where Brian got a job offer at State Farm who was impressed at the quality of education Brian received at SBU. Their family has expanded to include their four children: Lynna, 14; Mikayla, 12; Ian, 10; and Levi, 4. With these four kids to look after, Beth was able to fulfill her dream of being a stay-at-home mom.

In October 2001, just after the 9/11 tragedies, the Briggs’ lives were changed when Brian made the decision to join the Navy Reserves. “He always wanted to be in the military, but I couldn’t handle it when we were first married, but after 9/11, I knew he was thinking about it,” remembers Beth.

Brian currently works in the reserves as an MA2, or Masters at Arms, which is the equivalent of a military policeman. Being a part of the reserves allows Brian to continue pursuing his career at State Farm Insurance and remain close to his family while still fulfilling his dream of serving his country in the military.

In February, Brian was deployed for the second time to Iraq. Brian’s deployment will last eight to nine months. Beth says that they knew that this second deployment was coming.

“Even when Brian was home from his [first] deployment, we knew that the Navy wasn’t done with him yet,” she said. Knowing that Brian is in a combat zone is definitely difficult to handle sometimes, but Beth says she and her kids hold onto to God for support, especially being so far from their extended family.

“When I was talking to Lynna about her father’s deployment she said the pastor said, ‘Nothing can touch us that doesn’t go through God’s fingers first.’ I’ve been holding onto that. Nothing happens by chance,” Beth said, also commenting that she was proud of Lynna’s ability to apply their pastor’s teaching to their own family’s situation.

Beth believes that God has been constantly preparing them for this all along. Just before Brian’s deployment, the Briggs’ van broke down. Beth believes that God allowed the van to break down at that moment so that Brian would be able to help her get the van fixed.

Now with Brian gone for several months, Beth will not have to worry about the van.

“It was so good that the van broke down while Brian was still home so he could help,” said Beth.

The Briggs also are far from family in Bloomington, Ill., but God has given them a supportive church family to help Beth and the kids while Brian is in harms way. “God has put incredible people in our lives to help us,” said Beth. “Our church is incredible and always there for us.”

Brian still has several months to go in his deployment, but Beth and her kids will be relying on God to protect him and provide for them in this time of separation. As members of the SBU family, we ask that you pray for them during this time of deployment.
HONORING THE LORD IN THE MILITARY

CHAPLAIN GARY GILMORE

Chaplain Gary Gilmore, a 1979 Southwest Baptist College graduate, is currently the Missouri National Guard State Chaplain to the Joint Forces Headquarters in Jefferson City. Gilmore graduated from SWBC with a degree in religious studies and a minor in business administration. He was called to be a local pastor and chose Southwest Baptist after seeing many faithful men serving in Missouri graduated from SWBC. Gilmore served as pastor in Mount Vernon, Mo. and Waverly, Mo. Gilmore never intended to join the military.
“My call to chaplaincy was a lot like my call to ministry, one of initial surrender and then being guided to a place of service,” Gilmore said. “I’m prone to ask God to tell me what He’s thinking and then I’ll see if I approve of it. But that’s not how it’s worked in my life! Once fully surrendered and committed to doing His will, then He tells me the plan and opens the doors. Obedience is easy when you’ve already said ‘yes.’”

Gilmore was already established in a full-time position at Waverly Baptist Church in Waverly, Mo. when he realized that “pastors needed to model-the-role” in ministry.

“It was easy to tell others to be involved in a ministry outside the church walls and give their money to support Baptist mission efforts— but what was I doing?” said Gilmore.

A National Guard unit in Waverly had a vacancy for a chaplain, so at age 32 with two young children, Gilmore signed up for another weekend job.

“This was something I could do because of my education and skill,” said Gilmore. “I embraced this as an extension of my church ministry and got busy dong what I could.”

After accepting the position as a National Guard chaplain, Gilmore accepted the call to First Baptist Church of Mount Vernon, Mo.

Until Sept. 11, 2001, Gilmore’s National Guard ministry was ‘one weekend a month and two weeks in the summer’. After that day, Gilmore said the Chaplaincy grew into an “all-consuming ministry”.

Gilmore was deployed to Iraq. He calls this deployment an “interruption” to his plans, but a great ministry opportunity and time of personal growth. During his time abroad, he mobilized support of “Operation Noble Eagle,” a security mission in response to the September 11 attacks on our country.

“It was a time of contradictions,” said Gilmore. “I have never been closer to Susan and the girls than when I was farthest away from them. I have never valued the gift of life so much as when I lived with its uncertainty. I had few resources but accomplished ministry in entirely new ways using what was at hand. I learned to see things differently—sometimes what doesn’t happen is as important as what does.”

Gilmore said that during his time as chaplain to soldiers in Iraq, his faith was strengthened and he learned the power of prayer.

“Soldiers would come with terrible situations back home, and there was truly nothing I could do to influence their world,” said Gilmore. “I would offer them Biblical counsel and pray with them. A few days later I would see that soldier at the chow hall and they would say something like, ‘Hey Chaplain, I did what you said and you wouldn’t believe what happened when I called home!’ It was simply God at work in people’s lives.”

He also said that during his time in Iraq, he went back to the basics and learned that they are essential and fundamental when facing trying situations.

“The foundation of life is your relationship with Christ and cultivating relationships with loved ones and the people around you,” Gilmore said. “When you love God and your brother, you know what to do, no matter the situation you are facing— doing a training mission, routine things like eating chow with some guys, encouraging somebody with a trouble marriage or responding... to a crisis at the hospital. Focus on the basics in your life and the Lord will bring you plenty of opportunities to minister!”

Gilmore said coming back from Iraq was difficult simply because soldiers had more needs than before and there weren’t enough chaplains to cover the demand. He decided to step down as pastor at FBC Mount Vernon and devote his time to the National Guard.

“For the sake of the church and my family, I finally reached the place where I had to let go of the dual-ministry and give my energy to soldiers and their families,” said Gilmore. This was a decision based on the incredible needs we have in Missouri at this time.”

Gilmore says that his time in the National Guard and the education he received from SWBC has helped him grow and become an effective Christian.

“My National Guard service has broadened my world in many ways,” said Gilmore. “The Guard weekends got me out of my comfort zone and kept me engaged with people who need the Lord. The travel and ongoing education took me places and exposed me to top-notch training- my church gave up some control of my schedule, but they gained a better pastor in return.

“My training at SBU was essential for being a pastor- I needed both the Bible and business education to lead a church effectively,” said Gilmore. “I have also learned over time that while I may supplement the education I received at SWBC, it has been a life-long foundation for ministry leadership—and for life itself.”

Although the current University mission statement was not developed until Gilmore finished college, he says it accurately describes what generations of students are doing and have done.

“The current mission statement does describe what generations of SBU students have sought after- Christ-centered, caring and global impact,” said Gilmore. “It’s the global part that has changed. As a teenager, I went on mission trips to a neighboring state, and it was a big deal.”

During Gilmore’s years at SWBC, the first mission trips to Florida were offered during spring break. In 2009, the University will lead students on 19 mission trips throughout the world.

“Now SBU students can travel the world as a part of their education,” said Gilmore.

“Travel and missions is an essential part of a Christian education today. The world has gotten bigger in terms of opportunity and smaller in terms of our ability to impact it! I never imagined my life would touch the Middle East or have a statewide impact and national voice through the Chaplaincy. What a great day to be alive and serving the Lord!”

“God doesn’t call the equipped; He equips the called!” said Gilmore. “The key to success is more about being faithful than about being smart.

“I like the emphasis SBU places on building a life that honors the Lord, not just getting a degree,” said Gilmore. “The degree is a stepping stone to a life that matters.”

DORM FLOATS, FOOTBALL VICTORY & BED RACES
Oliver, the Weak-Tailed Possum
Don Kennedy ’43
Illustrations by Dave Renner
Pleasant Word, 2007

Oliver knows what it’s like to feel different. He knows what it’s like to be made fun of and embarrassed. But Oliver also knows how it feels to be a hero.

Open the door to your child’s heart with the story of Oliver. Oliver, the Weak-Tailed Possum never fails to draw gasps and squeals from young readers or listeners and never loses its appeal.

After more than 45 years of telling and retelling, Oliver’s story remains fresh and uplifting. Every child can identify with Oliver and feel his humiliation at his failure, his hurt at being teased, and his triumph as he proves an unlikely hero.

The Crimson King:
A Vision, A Journey, A Revelation
Dennis Dale Kemper
Editors: Sharina Smith, Glen Ellard, Kelly Fender

The Crimson King is a story of a journey, a search for truth. This poetic fantasy makes use of vivid imagery and a variety of settings in order to present a fresh portrait of Jesus Christ and to consider Biblical truth.

The future looked bright for Brant and Sarah. Excited and deeply in love, the two were preparing to spend the rest of their lives together. But a tragedy-horrible and bewildering-was to intrude, crushing Brant’s dreams. He was despairing to the point of self destruction. But Brant hadn’t counted on one who would reclaim his life. He would meet a king—a sovereign of unimaginable strength and unfathomable love—who would send him on an extraordinary quest. Brant would learn of this king as he traversed both familiar and strange, unfamiliar worlds. He would be a pilgrim and his pilgrimage would not end until the day when, face to face, he would meet the King-the Crimson King.

The Crimson King is a work of beautifully crafted yet easy to read poetic writing. A story of adventure and discovery, it is a vivid and creative allegory presenting biblical truth while focusing on the kingship of Jesus Christ.

Sharina Smith is the senior director of marketing and communications at Southwest Baptist University.
That Star-Spangled Weekend

Once again it was a joy and a pleasure to welcome many of you back to campus this fall for A Star-Spangled Homecoming! We had beautiful weather for the third straight year which helped make for a pleasant weekend. A record number of alumni and friends of the University pre-registered for and attended the events and activities.

SBU was proud to honor four of our graduates with the Life Service Award: Geraldine Stephen ’51, Dr. Carol Wilson ’61, Dr. John Wheeler ’72 and Mike Linderman ’86. The Rev. Dr. Paul Swadley ’56 was the recipient of the Edwin Lightfoot Distinguished Alumni award. Friday night we had wonderful attendance at our Alumni Banquet, Patriotic Concert, and Alumni Reunion/Dessert Fellowship.

The students outdid themselves on the floats during the parade this year, and both the women’s soccer team and the Bearcat football team used home field advantage and defeated their opponents.

Check out the Homecoming 2008 photo gallery on pp. 28-29 and see more photos online at www.SBUniv.edu/alumni. Plan now to join us for Homecoming 2009 on October 9-10, 2009!

If you have a Facebook account, please join the Southwest Baptist University fan club and the Southwest Baptist University Alumni group, and you will be able to re-connect and network with other alumni and read news from campus.

Shawn Summers ’94
Director of Alumni & Church Relations

NOMINATIONS ARE IN ORDER . . .

The SBU Alumni & Church Relations Office requests nominations from alumni and friends for the 2009 Life Service Award and Edwin Lightfoot Distinguished Alumni Award. If you have nominated a person who has not yet been selected, it is not necessary to re-submit that name. New nominations will be processed and combined with nominations on file. Please include a letter indicating why you believe this nominee deserves to receive the award and the name of the person making the nomination.

LIFE SERVICE AWARD Final selections are made by the Life Service Award committee of the National Alumni Association and then ratified by the entire board. A nominee should be at least 50 years of age. Nominees must be graduates who: (1) have lived exemplary Christian lives; (2) are or have been outstanding in their field of service; (3) were in good standing as students at SBU (SWBC); and (4) are or have been making a significant contribution to mankind.

LIGHTFOOT DISTINGUISHED ALUMNI AWARD The National Alumni Association Board annually selects a recipient of this award. The recipient of this award is a graduate who has: (1) remained enthusiastically and actively involved in leadership within the Alumni Association; (2) continued to support SBU in a variety of ways, including financially; (3) demonstrated genuine interest and concern for young people; and (4) been faithful and active in the work of a local church. This award is distinct from the Life Service Award in that nominees must have been continuously involved with the University through alumni activities since graduation.

The deadline for nominations is February 4, 2009. Please send your nomination(s) to: SBU Office of Alumni & Church Relations, 1600 University Avenue, Bolivar, MO 65613. If you have any questions please contact Shawn Summers, Director of Alumni & Church Relations, at 417.328.1806 or ssomers@sbuniv.edu.

Camile (Harper) Bratcher passed away the first part of 2008 in Henderson, Kentucky.

Mary (Anderson) Cansler passed away in Mankato, Minn., on May 19, 2008. Mary graduated from SWBC and began teaching at a one-room country school. This experience ignited a love for children and of teaching. She earned a bachelor and a master degree from Mankato State College. In 1989, after teaching kindergarten and first grade children for three decades, she retired from the Mankato Public Schools. She married Gleamon Merf Cansler, a high school classmate, September 13, 1942. She endured many hardships during his military service and his pursuit of a doctorate degree. Her selfless devotion to him and her two sons required postponement of her college education but not her creativity and interest in many activities.

Elizabeth (Mauldin) Linhardt is living near her daughter on the fifth floor of Noland Towers. She has been a member of Concordia Baptist Church for 53 years. She is still mobile but does use a cane for safety measures. 130 E. College Apt. 518, Independence, MO 64050

Joann (Ridenour) Bowdidge passed away on Sunday, March 9, 2008, after a battle with breast cancer. Joann was born on July 13, 1934, in Kansas City, Mo., to Stewart J. and Mildred Pewitt Ridenour. Joann graduated in 1952 from Raytown High School in Raytown, Mo. At the time of her death she was a consultant with Neuropsychological Associates of Southwest Missouri (NASM) where she worked to help many families overcome the difficulties faced by their children with learning disabilities. One of the highlights of her professional life was the recent publication of the book titled Transforming the Difficult Child Workbook: For Parents, Teachers, Practitioners and All Other Caregivers, which Joann coauthored with Howard Glasser and Lisa Bravo. Joann was an active member of University Heights Baptist Church in Springfield where she served in many capacities, most recently as president of the Chancel Choir. Joann loved the Lord and lived her life as an example of God’s love. She cared deeply for others and showed compassion to everyone with whom she interacted. Joann is survived by her beloved husband of 47 years, John, of Springfield.

Rev. Ronald Meldrum and Ellinda Meldrum were recognized for their fifty years of service during a special evening meeting on Sunday, September 7. About fifty people were present at King’s Valley Chapel on Salem Road as the Kingfield couple were given flowers and a plaque to honor them for their sacrifice and service. Rev. and Mrs. Meldrum have served in eight different churches during the last 50 years. Rev. Meldrum enrolled at Southwest Baptist College in 1958. Even before graduating, he was preaching at Forest Grove Baptist Church in Lamar, Mo., driving 70 miles one-way to be there. In every church he pastored, his wife, Ellinda Meldrum, served in sundry positions, including church secretary, Sunday school teacher, pianist, ladies group leader, and more. The couple served at churches in Lamar, Mo., Everton, Mo., Malta Bend, Mo., Gentry, Mo., Wheeling, Mo., Novinger, Mo., and Kingfield, Maine. Rev. Meldrum retired in 2001 due to health issues, but Rev. and Mrs. Meldrum continued to be active members at King’s Valley Chapel, the last church he pastored, and Rev. Meldrum continued to preach as needed at churches in Wilton, East Dixfield, and Kingfield.

Ricki Hunts for Bearcat

Ricki Taylor
SBU’s unofficial and unpaid (unless you count food) mascot Ricki died July 20, 2008. Ricki, part dachshund, part rat terrier, and all bearcat. Ricki was the pet dog of C.Pat Taylor, SBU president, and his wife Judy. Ricki was a part of the Taylor’s lives for the last 14 years. Ricki was 14 years and eight months old when she died of kidney failure. “We will miss her dearly,” said Dr. Taylor. He explained that Ricki had become so much a part of their lives that she was considered another family member. Ricki loved traveling. She was known for jumping in a suitcase being packed by the Taylor’s as they prepared for a trip. Ricki was brought along, enjoyed the trip from Mrs. Taylor’s lap in the front seat, as Dr. Taylor recalls. Ricki came to the Taylors by way of their oldest daughter’s boyfriend. Ricki was given to her during her senior year of college. Ricki was rescued from a local pound in Oklahoma. She was named after then-University of Kentucky head basketball coach Rick Pitino since the Taylors were loyal fans of the Wildcats. Ricki always traveled to campus and participated in events such as the homecoming parade. “Ricki enjoyed coming to campus and sniffting around,” said Dr. Taylor. Ricki’s involvement and joy of SBU’s campus is what made her the unofficial mascot of SBU. Ricki’s adventures on campus can be read about in a small book written by Mrs. Taylor and Sandra Brown, entitled “Ricki Hunts for Bearcat.” Ricki will be missed by her all of her SBU family members.

Dr. Bernard Holmes

Dr. Bernard Holmes, retired Southwest Baptist University professor, died September 9, 2008. He was 78 years old.

Dr. Holmes was born May 9, 1930 in Wellington, New Zealand. He was the eldest son of Scottish-Irish immigrants. He married Joyce (Trail) Holmes on June 2, 1956. He has two daughters, Bronwyn Loretta (Holmes) Blount and Sondra Jean (Holmes) Turner.

Dr. Holmes graduated from Wellington College in 1946 and worked as an accounting clerk at Guardian Trust and Executive Company until 1951. In 1946, Dr. Holmes was called to preach and continued his education at The Bible College of New Zealand from 1952-53. He was an honor graduate.

From 1954-60, Dr. Holmes served as music director, counselor training coordinator and children’s evangelist on a team holding crusades in New Zealand and Australia. When Rev. Billy Graham visited New Zealand and Australia in 1959, the evangelistic team joined his group for a month as observers. Dr. Grady Wilson, a part of Graham’s team, consulted with Holmes, and he made the decision to immigrate to the United States and pursue a doctorate in Theology.

Dr. Holmes graduated from California Baptist College in 1962 with a B.A. in History and Sociology. Holmes served as the student body president, received the President’s prize and honor roll, and graduated summa cum laude.

He attended Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary from 1962-65, earning his master’s in divinity and from 1966-74, earning a doctorate of Theology. He taught at Columbia International University from 1976 to 1982 as professor of homiletics, Bible and evangelism.

Dr. Holmes became professor of discipleship at SBU in 1982, the same year he became a naturalized citizen of the United States. He was a part of the SBU faculty for 16 years and helped start a new series in “prayer and discipleship” at the Redford College of Theology and Ministry. In addition to teaching, Dr. Holmes pastored many churches and ministered on almost every continent and most notably in India, Russia and South Korea. He helped develop and lead Wellspring Fellowship from its beginning in 1989. His son-in-law, Phil Blount posted this about Dr. Holmes online September 9, “He was a great man who touched many, many people both directly, as a professor, pastor, seminar teacher, missionary, and discipler, and indirectly, as his heart for discipleship was: ‘to teach others who will teach others also.’”
What other options are available to make a contribution to SBU besides a cash gift?
Other assets may be favorably donated to Southwest Baptist University. Publicly traded securities, stocks, and real estate are some of the many options for planned gifts to SBU.

Are there certain types of gifts that provide income to the donor?
Numerous charitable gift options exist that mutually benefit the donor and the charitable organization. SBU can assist those interested in this option to establish gift arrangements that provide a gift to the University as well as provide income to the donor and/or family member.

Have I established a plan to benefit my family and Southwest Baptist University?
We make plans for all facets of life: family, church, friends, etc. We establish plans for the day, the week, and the weekends. We plan for careers and for leisure. We should likewise intentionally plan for our financial future.

Have you made or updated your financial and estate plans?
Southwest Baptist University is prepared to assist you in your planning options for your charitable giving as well as for your financial and estate planning. We have an informative brochure entitled Gift Planning Options. This brochure describes the various types of gift options designed to provide you with tax savings, assured lifetime income, and the opportunity to support organizations like SBU that are doing the work and will of the Lord.

To learn more about planned giving options, contact us for the FREE brochure Gift Planning Options. To receive your free copy of Gift Planning Options, please contact our Estate Planning experts in the Office of University Relations.
